2018 Bible Reading Schedule and Challenge

Over the past 6 years I have put out a Bible reading schedule or Bible for you to follow or read. For 2018, as a congregation I am going to challenge you to read and study the scriptures in a way you may not have done before.

The schedule to the left shows the week and the chapters to be read for that particular week. Each day of the week (Monday-Sunday), all the chapters corresponding with that week should be read or listened to each day. Preferably using the same Bible each day for the whole year.

Example: Monday, you would read the chapters to yourself. Tuesday, you would read the chapters out loud. Wednesday, you would read the chapters to someone else. Thursday, you would listen to some reading the scripture to you. Friday, you would read them aloud again. Saturday, read and meditate on the chapters. Sunday, hear a sermon or class on them and read them to yourself.

You can do this however you would like to, even if you just read them silently to yourself each day that is great. The reason behind this is to fully immerse yourself in the words of God and to get a mental reference of where scripture(s) is/are located. When you have finished the year, if someone would ask you where the Lord's prayer is found you could quickly give an answer of Matthew 6:9-13 and Luke 11:2-4.

I pray that you will take this challenge as we grow in the words of God together in 2018.

in HIM,

Robert Heyen
